Publications Mistakenly Report that Led Zeppelin will Appear at Bonnaroo

In one of the biggest music press snafus in recent memory, a number of prominent publications mistakenly reported today that Led Zeppelin would appear at the seventh annual Bonnaroo Music & Arts Festival this June. Since last fall, rumors have circulated that the lauded classic-rock band would play a rare stateside show at Bonnaroo, along with confirmed headliner Metallica. When Bonnaroo's publicists sent out the festival's initial press release last night, the Associated Press, the NME and the Chicago Sun Times each misread all-girl cover band Lez Zeppelin as Led Zeppelin and ran stories confirming the latter group's appearance. Below is the header from yesterday's release: BONNAROO MUSIC AND ARTS FESTIVAL ANNOUNCES 2008 LINEUP FEATURING: PEARL JAM, METALLICA, JACK JOHNSON, KANYE WEST, ALISON KRAUSS & ROBERT PLANT, MY MORNING JACKET, WILLIE NELSON, PHIL LESH & FRIENDS, B.B. KING, SIGUR ROS, THE RACONTEURS, DEATH CAB FOR CUTIE

CROSS

Sun-Times reporter Jim DeRogatis said the following: "My esteemed Sun-Times music editor, whose name shall go unmentioned here (you're welcome, Thomas), is not the only music editor who made this mistake. How could this have happened? The press release was misleading, to say the least."

As correctly reported by Relix.com yesterday, Pearl Jam, Metallica and Jack Johnson will headline the multi-band event, which will feature marquee appearances by Phil Lesh & Friends, Kayne West, B.B. King, My Morning Jacket and Led Zeppelin. Led Zeppelin vocalist Robert Plant will perform at Bonnaroo with Alison Krauss.
